WHAT THE IRISH PEOPLE WANT

From a recent issue of the Dublin Daily Independent, the leading Sinn Fein paper of Ireland, we take the following:

It is reported in a London contemporary that no fewer than three bills purporting to effect an Irish settlement have been drafted for consideration by the Cabinet, but if their main features bear any resemblance to the outline which has been given the bills can only be regarded as scraps of paper. The bills, which are said to have been drafted by the Government, are:—(1) A bill to provide for the partition of Ireland into two parts, the one to be a free state and the other to remain a part of the United Kingdom. (2) A bill to provide for the partition of Ireland into two parts, the one to be a free state and the other to remain a part of the United Kingdom. (3) A bill to provide for the partition of Ireland into two parts, the one to be a free state and the other to remain a part of the United Kingdom.

The bill which is said to be the most favored, is the one which provides for the partition of Ireland into two parts, the one to be a free state and the other to remain a part of the United Kingdom. This bill is said to be the one which is most likely to be passed by the Government. SOLDIERS ATTACK CITIZENS.

The Associated Press cables from Cork, Ireland, that constant collisions between the military and civilians there culminated in a serious rioting Monday night when soldiers broke through the police lines and came into conflict with the crowd. Sticks

WORLD'S UNREST.

Cardinal O'Connell recently gave an earnest and opportune address on the world's unrest, as caused in large part by crime for amusement and the riches which are supposed to make for happiness, and by envy on the part of many of those who are richer than themselves. He had no criticism for a just and rational desire for one's share of the good things of this world, and a certain diligence in seeking them, so long as these disturb not our sense of proportion, our realization of what are the better things. God has made us of soul and body, and we have a right to the goods of both. He continued:

"All this I wish to say merely to emphasize the fact that I have striven in my own way, as far as my powers reached, to inculcate among the people of our church that it is their right and due as far as their ability goes, as far as the real contentment of life allows, as far as the true values of life permit, to gain and acquire and enjoy and use the good things of the world, the things which God knows we do not want our people to be forever in a condition of semi-slavery. We want them to enjoy the rights equally with those about them, and to attain to the things of life which are due to their intelligence, to their integrity, to their labor and to their perseverance."

But His Eminence would also make it clear that the great bulk of large Irishmen can be happy without luxuries; and it is no advantage to those who, in the nature of things, can not attain riches, to have their minds poisoned by the breeders of class hatred. This is the work of the devil, and we see it in every land. The world is going mad on the subject of riches and pleasure. It is teeming with bitter discontent. The Christian accepts material goods, in whatever righteous way they come to him, as blessings from God, and is grateful for them. The pagan principle is just to get them and to attach such an exaggerated importance to them as to be miserable without them.

EDWARD KENNEDY.

Edward Kennedy, fifty years old and a life-long and popular resident of the West End, passed peacefully away at his home at 1515 Sunday morning at the home of his brother-in-law, James Lyons, 1725 Bank street. From October 7, 1887, to May 1, 1918, when he retired, he was a faithful member of the police force, well liked by his superiors and every member of the department. During his long service he was never censured and residents on his beat enjoyed a feeling of security. His only survivor is his sister, Mrs. James Lyons. The funeral was held from St. Patrick's church, and a large attendance was indeed a tribute to respect.

NEW ALBANY.

Miss Nellie Cook and James Lopp, popular young people of New Albany, were united in marriage at the Trinity rectory Saturday evening. The Rev. Charles Curran performed the ceremony. Daniel Ferguson and Frank Biggs were the attendants. Following the ceremony the bridal couple departed on an extended wedding trip. Miss Cook is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cook, 1722 Shelby street.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Anderson, who have been visiting Mrs. Anderson's mother, Mrs. John O'Brien, Catherine Place, have gone on a visit to friends in Memphis, Hot Springs and Dallas before going to New Orleans, where they will spend the winter.

FLIES DAILY.

During the business of closing out the welfare activities in the British Isles by the Knights of Columbus, which has just been completed, William J. Mulligan, Chairman of the Overseas Committee, has been enabled to transact his duties with dispatch between Paris and London. The Knights decided with the departure of the mine sweeping division of the navy from the North Sea to close out their welfare work and Mulligan made a dozen trips across the channel via the air. The Knights have been in the care of the troops in Europe and in several parts of Europe the "Casey" men have been located longer than the A. E. F. on the chance of something out of the ordinary developing which would bring soldiers back into such sections.

GOOD PROGRESS MADE.

Eugene R. Bergeron, Field Secretary of the National Catholic War Council, is in Louisville to organize Boy Scout troops in each of the forty-one parishes of the city. Secretary Bergeron, whose home is in Muskegon, Mich., will be here between two or three months, and is making his office with the Louisville Council, Boy Scouts of America, on the sixth floor of the Paul Jones building. All troops organized by him will come directly under Louisville Council. The worker assigned to the Louisville Field Secretaries of the National Catholic War Council organization. The purpose is to organize Boy Scout troops wherever possible in all Catholic parishes throughout the nation, Catholic leaders everywhere having endorsed the movement. The Secretary reports that encouraging progress already is being made here.

DRIVE FOR RED CROSS.

Although the war is over and the Red Cross is not making a drive for big subscriptions, it does need renewal of membership upon the part of old subscribers. Remember, there will be no further canvas for another year. Cardinal Gibbons has highly commended the work of the Red Cross, which as an organization is recognized as filling a necessary office for the nation. In no way interfering with any local charitable organization, it steps in and aids them when needed and then, when the work is done, retreats without ostentation or advertising. Few people knew of the immense work that was done in this country during the influenza epidemic a year ago, when thousands of nurses were kept on call and sent to different localities where most needed, when medical and other supplies were sent out in large quantities and thousands of lives saved through receiving the proper care at the critical time. If you have not met your district collector you can make your subscription at the local Red Cross headquarters in the Speed building.

POPE RECEIVES ENVOY.

The Associated Press cables from Rome that for the first time since the declaration of the world war, Pope Benedict on Sunday officially received in private audience a representative of the Central Powers, Baron Johann von Gebasell, Secretary of the Bavarian Legation, who has arrived in Rome to prepare for the return of the Bavarian Minister. Diplomatic relations were not interrupted during the Holy See and Bavaria during the war. The Nuncio remained in Munich, while the Bavarian Minister accredited to the Holy See resided in the Vatican. The indirect relations with Bavaria which the Vatican maintained were respected by the Italian Government. The Pope and Cardinal Gasparri, the Papal Secretary of State, during the day received Monsignor Aloisi Masella, who has just returned from Lisbon, where he was stationed during the revolution, remaining there until the resumption of diplomatic relations between Portugal and the Holy See. Both the Pope and Cardinal Gasparri conversed at length with Monsignor Masella about the important questions he will have to solve in his new post as Nuncio to Chile, to which country he will proceed after a rest.

NEW CLASS BEING FORMED.

All girls desiring to join the new English mathematics class which is being formed are asked to call at the office and give in their names to the Catholic War Activities Council, 567 South Fourth street. This will be a once-a-week class and on a different night from the office training class on Thursday. The new class is now open every night until 9 o'clock and any ladies who can chaperone one night a month are asked to call Main or City 3359. These women, from the first part of November are Miss Cecile Le Costa, Mrs. Joe Morgan, Mrs. H. J. Martin, Mrs. Mary Mallon, Mrs. Thos. A. Brocar, Misses Margaret and Mary Boyle, Mrs. Minnie V. Bosche, Miss Alice and Bona Cahill.

WORLD'S GREATEST SINGER.

John McCormack, probably the most popular singer in the world, will appear in concert at the Hotel 21. This will be without question the greatest musical attraction ever announced for Louisville, and McCormack will draw people from all over the State of Kentucky. The managers of the concert, Bradford Willis and Merle Amintage, state that they will take very special care of out-of-town mail orders, and that they will see that all people coming from a distance have good seats. CABINET WORRIED.

From London the Associated Press on Wednesday telegraphed that the Cabinet is about ready to take up consideration of proposals of the Cabinet committee on the subject of Ireland. It was learned from an authoritative source that the Government is much embarrassed by publication of what has purported to be the Government plan for settlement of the Irish problem.

CASEYS GET MEDALS.

A bronze medal suitably inscribed will be awarded every "Casey" worker in the world war, it was announced in New York City on Wednesday night by the Supreme Council of the Knights of Columbus. Men and women workers at home and abroad will be decorated. The die of the medal represents a doughboy in the Argonne Forest being given hot chocolate by a wellfare worker.

CLOSING OF RETREAT.

The retreat for young men and boys that opened Wednesday in Holy Trinity church, East Kentucky street, will come to a solemn close tomorrow, when the blessing will be given. There was a large attendance both morning and evening, and Rev. Father Berneheim, the pastor, and Rev. Father Bernardine, C. P., who was the retreat master, are highly pleased with the results.

REPUBLICAN

Administration Begins to Cut a Big Swath With Taxpayers' Money.

Anti-League and Anti-Wilson Voters
Play a Good Joke on Themselves.

Swagor Sherley Would Have Saved
Camp Taylor For the City of Louisville.

THE FIELD AGAINST ROSS.

Attention was called in these columns last week to the principal causes of Democratic defeat in the recent election and the defeat of Swagor Sherley for Congress last year. The defeats were attributed to the fact that there are a good many voters whose uppermost thought is to vote for the "hick" Wilson, and this class care nothing for State, city or county affairs when they can get an opportunity to take a slap at the President. They will vote against their neighbor or some one of their own immediate family if they think they can register a rebuke to Wilson and the League of Nations, and while many of them profess to be intelligent enough to understand the many and different technical points of the much discussed treaty, yet they place guilty to the fact that they are not intelligent enough to scratch in order to vote a local ticket. The action of these voters was emphasized this week in the Camp Taylor removal report. As everyone knows, former Congressman Swagor Sherley was directly responsible for the bringing of the "hick" engine and came at a time when Louisville was sorely in need of something to carry it over the war period. What Camp Taylor did for our merchants, real estate men and everyone in general who were known to be "hicks" is well known to all. Swagor Sherley, the man who brought the "hick" engine here, and in addition had a record in Congress second to none in the whole United States, was a candidate for re-election last year. The Board of Trade, the merchants' associations and the other bodies who were known to be "hicks" and lamenting over the possible removal of Camp Taylor, made no effort to see that Mr. Sherley was returned to Congress, although out of sheer gratitude it was their duty. The slap-at-Wilson voters achieved their purpose, the "hick" engine was defeated by only 1,000 votes and a man sent in his place who has never created a ripple and half the public wouldn't know who our Congressman was if the Louisville Herald didn't continue to repeatedly print his name.

Here's another joke the anti-Wilson and anti-League of Nations voters play on themselves. In their fear of losing their vote by scratching they voted for an endorsement of the present misfit "reform" administration and this week taxpayers and merchants, big and little, were notified that there had been a big increase in their assessment. When the taxpayers went to the City Hall to register a protest they were told that the administration was sorely in need of money, because of the raises given our Key-stoners police, the "hick" firemen, and in fact everyone that stood in with the Hart-Searcy machine. The "reform" administration feels that it has been given an endorsement at the polls and from now on will be spending money like a drunken sailor. Here's a sample. The Chief of the Key-stoners announced on changes in the police department the other day. Capt. Laird, who did not go to France with the First Regiment, was made Night Chief and Night Chief Winter-Smith was made Business Director of the Police Department. This is a strict violation of the charter, and Petty has no more right to create the office of a business director than he has to create the office of Keeper of the Royal Panjamas.

Specie policy of the army of useless spending now going on and the creation of political sinecures, which is another way of padding the pay-rolls, what has become of the big fund set aside by near Mayor Smith and his boards to investigate the Democratic administration. Right sailor, here's a sample. The Chief of the Key-stoners announced on changes in the police department the other day. Capt. Laird, who did not go to France with the First Regiment, was made Night Chief and Night Chief Winter-Smith was made Business Director of the Police Department. This is a strict violation of the charter, and Petty has no more right to create the office of a business director than he has to create the office of Keeper of the Royal Panjamas.

The publication by the Sinn Fein party of the secret orders which Dublin Castle sent to the constabulary harbor authorities has been opened the eyes of the Government to the fact that it is dealing with a new force which it can never hope to control. These orders directed that all American sailors coming to Irish ports were to be searched. The ink was hardly dry on these secret orders when Sinn Fein was protesting vigorously to the American Consul the citizens of a friendly nation, to say that the Government has been dazzled by this new evidence of Sinn Fein activity would be putting the matter mildly. Coming on the heels of the Sinn Fein convention, which was held in Dublin while the authorities with a military force occupied the Mansion House, where the convention was to meet, and also occupied the adjacent streets with instructions to arrest or shoot the delinquent, the publication of the secret orders shows that the Sinn Fein is functioning insofar as at least as it is able to reach the Government's own secret sources of authority and to broadcast the private instructions intended for the Government's own agents, for it goes without saying that if Sinn Fein had not known the authorities' intentions beforehand hundreds of the delegates to the convention would have been arrested or worse may have befallen them. Is it any wonder that the Government is dazed when it finds Sinn Fein virtually using its own weapons against it and menacing its peace of mind by merciless publicity. What the United States will do in reference to the search of its sailor citizens we are unable to forecast. What it should do is to issue a "hands off" ultimatum to England.

WAS LONG ILL.

Dr. James T. Shannon, forty-six years old, died Wednesday at his home in Lexington after an illness of two years' duration. He was one of the best known veterinary surgeons in the country, and was known to practically every turfman who raced at the Lexington track. He was a graduate of St. Mary's College, Marion county, and of the veterinary college of the University of Glasgow, Scotland. He is survived by his widow and three children and by a half-brother, former Mayor John Skain.

EXPRESSES GRATITUDE.

Canon Cabanel, chaplain of the famous Blue Devils, who has been the distinguished guest of the United States for the past few weeks, is about to return to France. Sent by the French High Commission, of which he is a member, his mission in America was to visit the various committees of the Paterless Children of France, an American organization co-operating with a similar one in Paris of which Marshal Joffre was the president. He expressed his gratitude of his country for the aid rendered to the poor little homeless orphans of the war during the past three years through its plan of long distance "adoption." American aid has been contributed to the extent of ten cents a day. Every cent of money contributed goes direct to the child, the small expenses of the organization being borne by generous friends.

PLEASING RECITAL.

A large and appreciative audience heard the recital of Miss Anna Week, the contralto who has won high praise both in this country and abroad, given Wednesday afternoon at Holy Rosary auditorium. Miss Week presented an artistic and classical programme and sustained the reputation as an artist and musician that preceded her. Her audience was appreciative from first to last and expressed hope that she would soon give another.

The mission will close tomorrow.

ENGLAND'S

Boasted Part in the War Exposed
Now in Official Documents.

Americans Outnumber British Armies
Ten to One at Argonne-Meuse.

Britain's Fighting Strength at Close of War Was Only 465,000.

OLD JOHN BULL'S BLUSTERING.

Truths long concealed during the war are now coming out in official documents. Here are some of the most interesting suppressed facts recently disclosed:

In Mrs. Humphry Ward's third volume of the history of the war, "Fields of Victory," she publishes for the first time a confidential report kept by the British General Staff revealing the exact fighting strength of Great Britain in France from January, 1916, to the day of the armistice. It shows that in 1918, when America had two million men in France, and of these 1,330,000 were actual combat troops, Great Britain's fighting strength was less than half a million. Also that in the decisive battle of the Argonne-Meuse 546,000 Americans were actually engaged alongside of 56,000 British and 58,000 French.

Nearly all the newspaper accounts from British sources during 1916 and 1917 estimated the strength of the British armies in France anywhere from two million to four million men. Mrs. Humphry Ward's statement in the second volume of her war history, published in 1917, that the British army was bearing the brunt of the battle, did not therefore seem to be exaggerated. But the chart of the British General Staff, which she now publishes, shows that the earlier statistics were grotesque exaggerations. The actual fighting strength in January, 1916, of the British troops in France, official chart shows, was 470,000 men; in July, 1916, 680,000, and on the eve of the Battle of Vimy Ridge, April, 1917, the British strength reached its maximum in France, 760,000 combat troops. From this point on the strength gradually lessened. The terrific battles of the last three months of the war 620,000 English, Scotch, Irish and Welsh troops compared with 1,330,000 American actual fighters. On the day the armistice was signed the British fighting strength was 465,000. There were then two million American in France.

It was the American advance in the Argonne-Meuse, reaching a point on the river Meuse opposite Sedan on November 11, which made further German resistance hopeless. This was the enemy's main line of communications, and "nothing but surrender or an armistice could save the German army from complete disaster," as General Pershing officially telegraphed. General Ludendorff's memoirs also leave no doubt on this point. The German Chief Quartermaster General writes: "We calculated on forcing a decision on the Western front before the American troops could arrive. Our naval experts estimated in April, 1917, that the German army of one million American soldiers in a reasonable time would require five million tons of shipping. Such a quantity of shipping, in view of the necessity for maintaining supplies to the Western powers, could not be spared even temporarily. . . . Yet the Americans came in even greater numbers than we had conceived possible. . . . They were the decisive factor in the war."

To these interesting confessions may be added the appalling figures of war losses now published for the first time by the Budget Committee of the French Chamber of Deputies, showing the measureless bloodshed, suffering and losses of France. Up to June, 1919, 1,334,000 Frenchmen were killed; 4,103,981 wounded and 4,382,213 sick were treated in French military hospitals. . . . Some of these wounded were treated as many as seven times, the estimated number of French officers and men wounded is put in the budget report as 2,800,000. In reading these figures to the Chamber of Deputies, M. Louis Girin, Chairman of the Budget Committee, stated that, in killed and missing in France, the United Kingdom of Great Britain lost 682,000 in fifty-nine months, the United States 114,000 in eleven months. M. Marin estimated the total British troops killed during the war at 1,290,000, Germany's loss in killed and missing 2,041,000, and Austria-Hungary's, 1,542,817.

In view of these authentic facts and staggering figures, the following sentence from an article by Major Gen. Sir Frederic Maude, Director of British Military Operations during the war, in a British newspaper on October 22, appeals to the American sense of humor: "It was chiefly the hammer blows of the British army which forged victory in the last wonderful campaign on the western front."

AMERICAN PEOPLE SUPREME.

The result of the elections prove conclusively that the majority of our people are opposed to the League of Nations as it stands and it is a mistake of President Wilson and his administration to try and choke this objectionable legislation down our throats. The American people's wishes in this matter are supreme and the Democratic leaders should bow to that decision.

SUGGESTIONS.

The frequent accidents of the local street railway company and the poor service are bringing loud and long protests from the public. As a suggestion to the Street Car Company, why not try employing a few city men in the future, men who know the streets and who would be better equipped in cases of emergency than "hillbillies" that are not used to crowded thoroughfares? Another mistake is to employ press agents to dish out propaganda concerning labor and capital, etc., especially when these press agents have never been near enough to labor to familiarize themselves with working conditions.

AMERICAN CONCERN.

It is interesting to observe that France is not entirely at ease with regard to the six British votes. Leon Bourgeois, a leading exponent of the league in France, proposes to open the question of French colonial representation as soon as the league begins to function. The well known English journalist, Alfred Gardiner, until recently editor of the London Daily News, thinks that American fears should be allayed by Great Britain volunteering to withdraw the six-vote privilege. "I readily understand the American concern in the matter," he writes, "and I recognize it as a real objection which should be met." In view of these foreign opinions, those Americans who oppose the six votes should not be regarded as wholly unreasonable.

BRITISH HIPOCRISY.

England puts up a show of fighting for self-determination and the rights of Jugo-Slavs, the Armenians or even the natives of Africa, but can not see the rights of Ireland at any time. In defense she pleads that "Ulster must not be coerced," but does not hesitate for a minute in placing the Germans of Bohemia under the control of the Czechoslovaks.

WORK IS DONE.

President Wilson is slowly recovering from the serious illness that seized upon him six weeks ago. He is now able to perform part of his work and to sign bills. But it is not likely that he will ever again be able to perform the strenuous work that he did during the past few years. His important work is done. And pity it is that is was not done differently. Had the President husbanded his strength and sent four able representatives to France last year he would not now have to shoulder all the blame for the failure at Paris. As it is now, he lost what he went after and must take the blame for the failure. This burden is not a light one.

CAMOUFLAGE.

Announcement of a plan to give home rule to Ireland through a two-Parliament scheme does not impress us as practical. Nor do we think that Lloyd George expects it to work out in a practical manner. He is only concerned in carrying on a camouflage agitation in order to make the world believe that he is still sincere. The world knows better by this time. And there is nothing to be gained by trying to deceive the Irish people any longer. They know Lloyd George and his faithless promises for the past five years. He never meant that Ireland should have home rule, and it will never come in his day. The Irish people have declared for independence with or without the consent of the tricky British Premier.

SITUATION NOT IMPROVED.

The great coal strike began in spite of the warning of President Wilson and the injunction granted on application of the Government against the officers of the miners' union. The situation has not improved this week, and the outlook is for several weeks' idleness at the mines just at the time when production is most needed. Efforts at mediation have thus far made little progress, and there seems to be little likelihood of a settlement soon.

Meanwhile the country faces a serious crisis in industry and transportation, not to speak of the inconvenience caused to the average citizen and the threat that he will soon be unable to get coal for household purposes. If the strike lasts for a month the country will have been brought to a standstill industrially, and the hardships and suffering will be intense. We hope that some way will be found out of the tangle before it comes to that. We know little about the merits of the issue between the miners and the operators, hints the True Voice. We have strong reasons to suspect the latter of profiteering in coal for the past two or three years. In fact, we suspect that they, rather than the miners, have been responsible for the limited production that is given as the excuse for doubling and trebling the price of coal. The six-hour day demanded by the miners seems to us to be unreasonable. If men in every trade worked only six hours a day we would face a situation of scarcity that would mean prohibitive prices. All would suffer, and no one would have gained anything but leisure that could bring no contentment under an era of soaring costs. There should be mediation and a reasonable settlement of the coal strike, and that settlement should not be long delayed. If necessary, compulsory arbitration should be resorted to by the Government.

The strike has been called off and there seems now bright prospects for arbitration and settlement.

However much Irish Nationalists may have differed as to the means to be employed to achieve their country's freedom, they are all agreed regarding Ireland's right to self-determination. And all real Americans are with them.

LEAGUE UNPOPULAR.

Every well posted politician in the State realizes that the League of Nations was the principal cause of defeat of the State Democratic ticket and they further know that the Courier-Journal and Times aided the Republican party by forcing that issue in the campaign, tacking the League on the Democratic candidates when they wished to fight shy of it. Mr. Bingham, publisher of the Courier-Journal and Times, a former candidate on the Republican ticket, and bosom companion of Hert, the Republican boss, played his cards well for defeat of the Democratic ticket and the entire State Democratic press is condemning him now.

FRIENDS OF FREEDOM.

Monday night there was a large and enthusiastic meeting of citizens friendly to the cause of Irish freedom at Bertrand Hall. Rev. John O'Connor presided and during the evening many names were added to the roster of Robert Emmet Branch. After the minutes were read and a free discussion the dues were placed at fifty cents per quarter of the year, ladies to pay only the initiation fee of a dollar. In recognition of their long and faithful services in behalf of Ireland's cause, two of Louisville's oldest and best known citizens, Jeremiah Kavanagh and Thomas Hines, both nearing the century mark, were elected honorary life members. Mrs. Fred Haug, who also became a member, tendered her services to the Friends of Irish Freedom upon all occasions. Mrs. Catherine McGee, of New York, told of the wave of feeling for Ireland sweeping over New York and the East and was pleased with the interest awakening in Kentucky. Rev. Martin O'Connor, who expressed himself as heart and soul for a free and independent Ireland, told from personal experience and observation the terrible conditions existing there and the impressions they made upon him. There was discontent, he said, from the time of the union, and this was constantly increased by the persecutions by the absentee landlords who spent their worthless lives in London and Paris. For forty-nine years the Irish people had been striving for home rule, only to be deceived and betrayed time and time again. They were now acting on President Wilson's fourteen points and would continue until the world was convinced that Ireland should have and enjoy the freedom. Peter J. Dowling advocated a policy that would meet England at every point and Attorney Thomas Walsh said Cardinal Mercier declared the Irish were imbued with the spirit of the Belgians, and here in free America the people will advocate Ireland's cause to the end. The President, Rev. John O'Connor explained at length the Sinn Fein movement, one that embraces all colors and creeds, who demand recognition of the Irish as a nation. A happy spirit characterized the proceedings and large accessions are expected at the next meeting, the second Tuesday in December.

Miss Otter Wants To Meet Every Married Man In Louisville This Week

She's serious about it, too. She says most every woman has seen our model kitchen and now she wants every man to know just how much labor and trouble a scientific kitchen will save his wife.

She wants to show him, too, how such a kitchen would benefit his purse—and add to the comfort and convenience of his whole family.

Come in any time this week and see the immaculate cleanliness of a complete gas and electric kitchen—with and electric range, white enameled refrigerator, dishwashing machine, automatic gas water heater, etc., etc.

HEROIC LITTLE MARTYR.

SISTER MARY JEAN CONNOR.

Last Tuesday, Armistice day, an artistic and imposing monument to Sister Mary Jean Connor, the little martyr of Camp Zachary Taylor, was unveiled at Toronto, Ohio, with impressive and patriotic exercises, in the presence of a gathering of thousands of people. Sister Mary Jean was the youngest of the ninety-five Sisters representing the various Sisterhoods who had volunteered their services when the dreaded influenza was mowing down the soldier boys at the local camp more ruthlessly than the bullets of the Huns. Reaching the camp October 11, she was stricken in the emergency hospital October 20, and only a week later made the supreme sacrifice. Sister Mary Jean was born in Toronto, Ohio, on October 4, 1889,
of Scotch Irish parentage. She entered the novitiate at Loretto in August, 1916, taking her first vows August 15, 1917. Every mark of honor and respect were paid to her by the United States Government.

The coffin, draped with the American flag, was borne by a military escort to the Knights of Columbus Auditorium, where a military funeral was accorded her. Present were the highest commanding officers of the camp—soldiers, Red Cross nurses and as many Sisters as could be spared. Reverend Mother Praxedes, many Loretto Sisters, and also representatives of all orders in the city
united to pay homage to the "Little Martyr," for greater love can no man have than that he lay down his life for another. Sister Mary Jean will be long remembered by the 70,000 soldiers whom she would save from sickness and suffering.

RECENT DEATHS.

Widespread sympathy is felt for Mrs. Ruby Neal, 327 North Nineteenth street, from whom Death
took her beloved husband, Roger T.
Neal, aged thirty-seven, Tuesday morning. The funeral was held Thursday morning from St. Patrick's church.

Death called William B. Gray, beloved husband of Mary L. Gray, on Saturday morning at the family home, 1327 South Twenty-second street, and the news was a shock to his friends. Monday morning the funeral services were held at St.
Charles church.

Monday morning the funeral of Francis J. McHugh, for many years a respected and well known resident of the West End, took place at St. Patrick's church. He was sixty-seven years old and is survived by his daughter, Mrs. James P. Early, 1814 Baird street, with whom he made his home.

Funeral services for Miss Katie Nuxol, who died at the home of her sister, Mrs. M. J. Doll, 2103 West Broadway, were held Monday morning at St. Charles church. A most estimable young lady, her death is mourned by many friends. Besides her sister she leaves two brothers, William and John Nuxol.

Many friends and relatives extend sympathy to Andrew and Mamie Heller, 162 North Campbell street, from whom the Angel of Death has taken their infant daughter, Catherine Ruth, the idol of their home. The funeral took place Tuesday morning, when the body was tenderly laid to rest in St. Louis cemetery.

Holy Name parish mourns the death of Mrs. Annie Martin, beloved wife of Thomas Martin, South Louiville, who went to her eternal reward early Monday morning. A devoted spouse and friendly neighbor, she was held in high esteem by all who knew her. Funeral services took place Wednesday morning.

K. OF C. INITIATION.

Local Council 390, of the Knights of Columbus, will initiate a class of sixty-five tomorrow, this class being known as a "surprise class," having been secured by Messrs. Burke, Nitzken, Voss and Graven, of Holy Cross church parish, after a silent hunt for new members. Needless to say these four hustlers have been getting the glad hand from the officers and members of the council.

LETTER FROM GEN. WOOD.

Demobilized in France by the army, 100 Americans from the aviation service, led by Col. R. S. Howland, of California, have volunteered with the Poles and are now on their way to fight the Bolshevik along the frontiers. This information was contained in a cable message received by William P. Larkin, Overseas Director of the Knights of Columbus. The news came from William J. Mulligan, Chairman of the Committee on War Activities, who is preparing to return to this country.
"The Knights of Columbus can now go on record in their fight against the menace of Bolshevism," said Director Larkin, "by proudly announcing that the 100 men led by Col.
Howland have been fully equipped for their work in Poland by the Knights. We have supplied them with uniforms, shoes, socks, caps, blankets, leather jerkins, woolen wear and supplies. They have called themselves "The Casey Platoon."

Chairman Mulligan in his message
also stated that "an old-fashioned New England Halloween dinner was served in the K. C. Club in Paris for the remaining American soldiers and officers. On All Souls' day the great Church of St. Joseph in the French capital was the scene of a distinguished gathering of clergy and laity upon the occasion of a solemn mass celebrated for the soldiers of the Allied cause who died in battle.

On the eve of their relinquishment, under orders from the War Department, of their relief work in the domestic camps of the country,

War Activities received the following letter from Major General Leonard Wood, Commander of the Central Department:

"The work of the Knights of Columbus came under my observation for a period of nearly a year and a half at Camp Funsten, Kansas. I have also seen much of their work elsewhere. Their work has been excellent and characterized by a spirit of liberality and helpfulness. Indeed the service rendered by the organization has been of real assistance in the training of our men in that it has added to their personal comfort and their contentment in camp.
It has also aided in the maintenance of high moral standards by surrounding the men with the best of influences. You are to be congratulated on the results attained.

"LEONARD WOOD."
The Knights of Columbus Committee on War Activities, after discussing the order of the War Department taking over the war relief work that has been carried on,
made this statement:

"The Knights of Columbus protested against the War Department's order to withdraw all war work agencies in home camps by November 1. But at the time we made our protest we stated that we would of course abide by the War Department's orders. We have not changed our attitude, neither have we changed our opinion that relief work of the nature conducted by the Knights of Columbus in the camps is more efficaciously conducted by civilian than by military agency,
and it is an established fact that relief work under civilian auspices is preferred by the soldier.

"Of course, in conformity with the War Department's order, the Knights of Columbus are withdrawing from the camps, leaving only such workers as are necessary to complete the winding up of our affairs in each camp. We have received many communications from camp officers regretting our departure. We shall cheerfully co-operate with the War Department in its effort to initiate relief and recreational work, and our personnel in the camps has been placed at the War Department's disposal."

TURKEY FESTIVAL TUESDAY.

A turkey festival, euchre and lotto

"MY NEW CURATE."

The clergy, heads of colleges and directors of our Catholic societies will welcome the dramatization of Canon Sheehan's masterpiece, "My New Curate."

Brother Benjamin, of St. Xavier's College, Louisville, has had this edifying, elevating and thorough Irish play copyrighted and in a few days it will come from the press. The play was staged in Boston and Louisville while in manuscript form, but now it is on the market to be produced all over the United States. Coming at this opportune time, when everyone should be loyal to the Irish cause and the Irish question, "My New Curate," as a comedy drama, will receive a great welcome. The great evicting scene brings reminiscences and tears to many who witness this beautiful drama. St. Xavier's College Alumni has already played it thirteen times and always to crowded houses. This speaks well for an amateur production. It is easily staged and can be produced year after year. Copies of the drama will be sent to any one upon receipt of $1.00. Address Brother Benjamin, C. P. X., St. Xavier's College, Louisville, Ky.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

Late News That Will Interest Members Here and Elsewhere.

Last Sunday there was another big initiation at Sioux City.

Twenty-seven candidates have just been initiated at York, Neb.

Bernard Kelly has been appointed manager of the new K. of C. Home in Indianapolis.

The initiation of Omaha on November 23 will bring the membership up to 1,500.

Rev. Father Soter, pastor of St. Joseph's church, has been appointed chaplain for Evansville Council.

From the enthusiastic interest prevailing at Little Rock big things are expected right along in rapid succession.

The initiation of large classes at Defiance and Niles, Ohio, has added materially to the Buckeye State membership.

Boston Knights will launch a campaign for $100,000 with which they will erect a Catholic civic and social center building.

With the last initiation of twenty candidates the council at Steubenville, Ohio, is practically double what it was a year ago.

Denver Knights have secured the Henn property, Sixteenth and Grant streets, where they will erect their new home and service house.

The Knights have reserved 100 seats for the concert of the Vatican choir, who appear Monday night in the Auditorium at St. Joseph.

Denver Council has sold its club house for $109,000 and is conducting a campaign for another $100,000 to make up the fund required for its new quarters.

The banquet for returned soldiers at Dunlap, Iowa, was voted an ideal event. The Knights spared no pains and were ably assisted by the Daughters of Isabella.

Albert J. Laplace and Capt. John Hughes, of Mobile, conducted one of the best initiations ever witnessed in New Orleans, conferring the degrees on a class of 100.

HOLY ROSARY BAZAR.

The Holy Rosary bazar will open the evening of November 24 with a programme by the minims of the school. No admittance will be charged. Each evening at 8 o'clock the pupils will give a programme consisting of folk dances, songs and drills, exemplifying the work done in the school during the periods devoted to music and physical culture.

In the afternoon of the 25th and 26th the hall will be opened at 3 o'clock and then the various amusements will be offered to the children.

The different booths will be as follows: The mother's apron booth, Holy Rosary Alumnae linen booth, St. Catharine's apron booth, High School pupils' Cabbage Patch, Commercial class candy booth, Children's toy booth. Refreshments will be served in the gymnasium.

DAUGHTERS OF ISABELLA.

The regular bi-monthly meeting of Louisville Circle, Daughters of Isabella, will take place next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at Knights of Columbus Hall. In view of the fact that nominations for officers, to be elected in December, for the year 1920 will be made, all members are urged to be present. An interesting feature of the evening will be the presence of the chaplain, Rev. Father Riley, of St. Francis of Rome church. At this meeting plans will be perfected for the "Nickel Evening," to which all the Daughters and their friends are looking forward with expectant pleasure.

FUNNY FOR OLD CATS.

A letter from Rev. Father F. J. Carbajal, S. J., now at Tampa, Fla., to his brother, N. G. Carbajal, one of New Orleans' prominent attorneys, contains the following very noteworthy references about the Catta family, which has recently figured quite prominently in current Florida history:

"In my letter to --- I mentioned about Gov. Catta's son marrying a fervent Catholic lady. The marriage was performed by a Jesuit priest in Key West, the present home of both the groom and the bride. Some funny things happen, don't they? All the newspapers are now laughing at the Governor. One Tampa paper called him 'the great leveler' and again as a joke it remarked, 'We wonder if any secrets have been communicated to the Pope since the recent matrimonial alliance in the Governor's family.'"
